

Voices From the Trenches

Alexandra Overby

Alabama A&M University

alexaoverby@gmail.com

"I always loved art teachers because they were so bizarre. They were like the homeless people of the faculty -- all disheveled, wearing smocks, covered in paint, always digging through the garbage, looking for bottles and egg cartons and things." -Ted Alexandro

Bibliography of Narrative Research

Barone, T. (2001). Touching Eternity. Teachers College Press: New York.

Behar, L. and Morgan, R. (1995). Narrative Research, Teaching, and Teacher Thinking: Perspectives and Possibilities. Peabody Journal of Education, 70(2), 139-161.

Chan, E., Keyes, D., and Ross, V. (Eds.) (2012). Narrative Inquirers in the Midst of Meaning-making: Interpretive Acts of Teacher Educators. Emerald Group Publishing Limited.

Heikkinen, H. (2002). Telling Stories in Teacher Education: A Narrative Biographical View of Portfolio Work. In Huttenen, R. Heikkinen, H., and Syrjala, L. (Eds.) (2002). Narrative Research: Voices of Teachers and Philosophers. Jyvaskyla, Finland: SoPhi.

Hobson, D. (2001). Action and Reflection: Narrative and Journaling in Teacher Research. In Burnaford, G., Fisher, J., and Hobson, D. (Eds.) (2001). Teachers Doing Research: The Power of Action Through Inquiry. Routledge.