

Children's Artwork
in Response to the study of the Holocaust,
Terezin,
and Brundibar

FSUS Art Department 2013

Middle School & High School Art: Four art teachers incorporated the study of the Holocaust, Terezin, and Brundibar into their curricula:

Middle School art
Drawing and Painting
Photography and Graphic Design

We all accessed the same books of Holocaust Poetry and Art and used Ela's story "The Cat with the Yellow Star" along with the operetta Brundibar.

Yet each of us approached our lessons in different ways.

Pam Wallheiser, Middle School Art

The animals in Brundibar are:

A cat

A bird

A dog and

As long as there is life, there is hope.

*Though there is anguish
deep in my soul
what if I must search for you forever?-
I must not lose faith,
I must not lose hope.
--Alena Synkova*

I shall light a candle of understanding in thine heart, which shall not be put out.

A low-angle shot of a hand gripping a sword hilt, with the blade pointing upwards towards a bright blue sky. A strong sun flare is visible on the right side of the frame, creating a lens flare effect. The sword has a dark, possibly black or dark brown, hilt with a crossguard. The hand is positioned on the left side of the frame, holding the hilt. The blade is a straight sword, and its tip is near the top center of the image. The sky is a clear, vibrant blue, and the sun flare is a bright white light with radiating rays and a greenish-yellow lens flare on the left side.

Always do what is right.
It will gratify half of mankind
and astound the other.
—Mark Twain

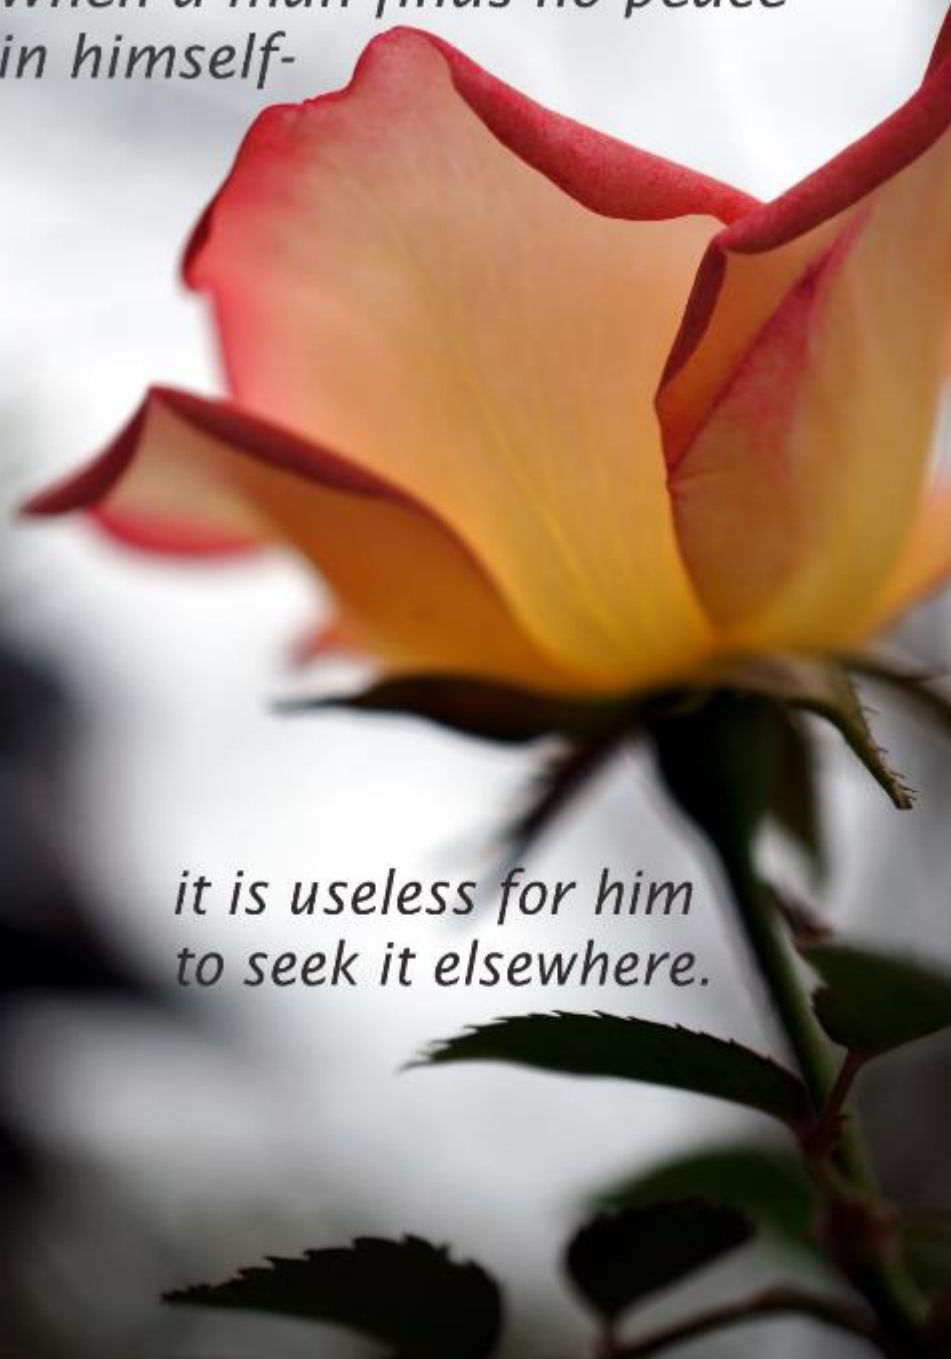

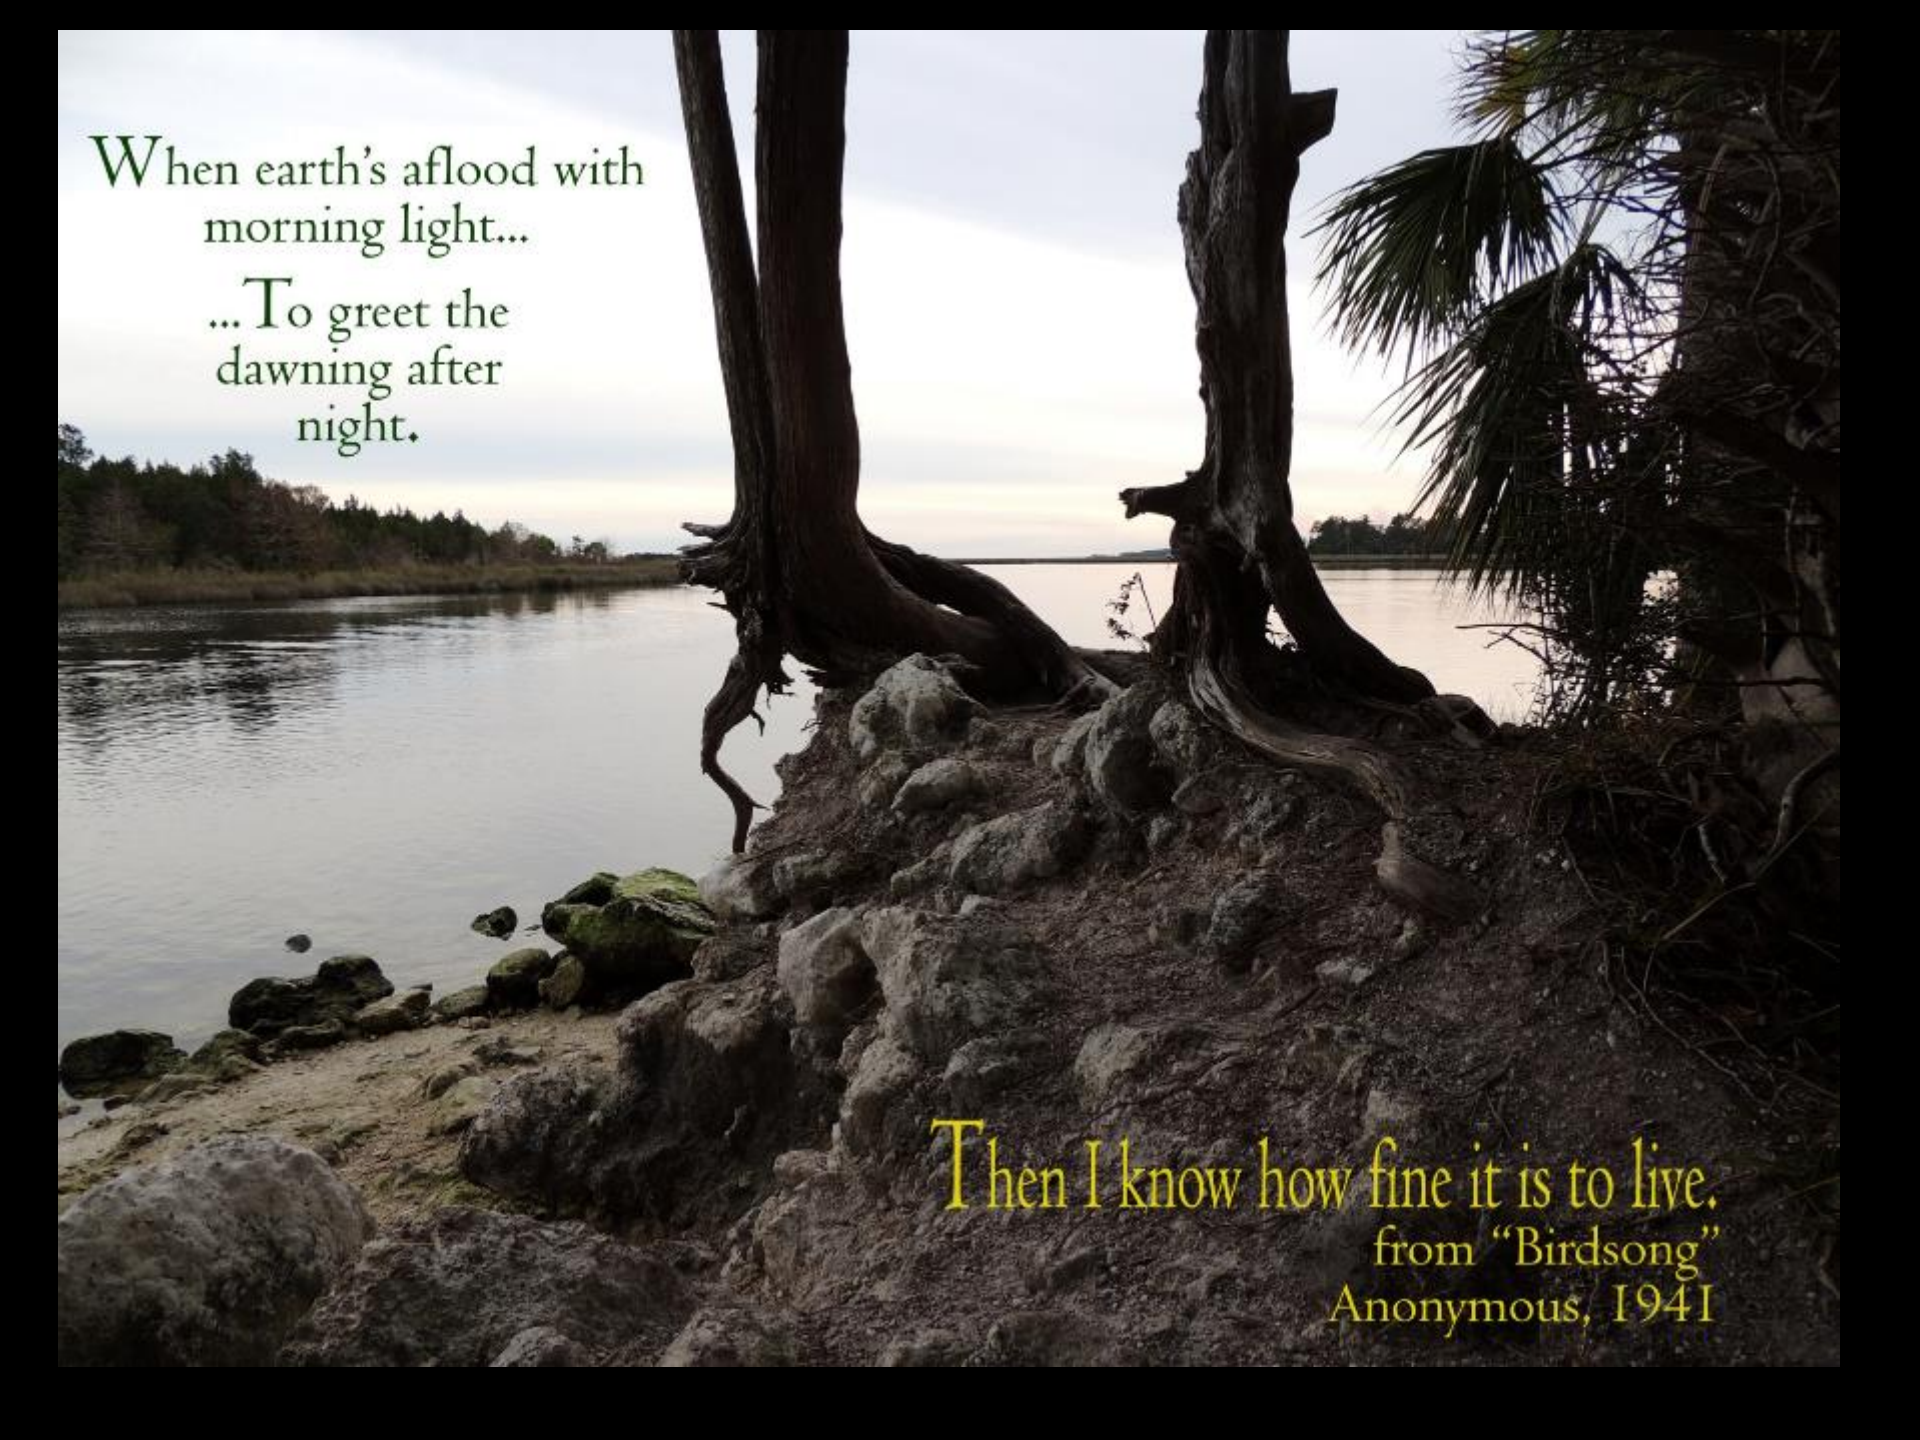

To do injustice
is more disgraceful
than to suffer it.

*When a man finds no peace
in himself-*

*it is useless for him
to seek it elsewhere.*

When earth's aflood with morning light...
...To greet the dawning after night.

Then I know how fine it is to live.

Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Lord

Out of the depths I have cried unto thee,
O Lord.

“The dandelions call to me
And the white chestnut branches in the court.
Only I never saw
another butterfly.”

Where there is Peace there is Blessing.

People will not look forward

who never look backward

It Matters Not
What You Are Thought To Be,

But What You Actually Are.

“Perhaps they are not stars, but rather openings in heaven where the love of our lost ones pours through and shines down upon us to let us know they are happy.” -
